

Former Clorox Chairman and CEO G. Craig Sullivan Elected to Kimberly-Clark's Board of Directors

DALLAS, June 9, 2004--Kimberly-Clark Corporation (NYSE: KMB) today announced that G. Craig Sullivan, former chairman and CEO of The Clorox Company, has been elected to its board of directors, effective September 1, 2004.

Mr. Sullivan, 64, retired as Chairman of Clorox Company in December of 2003.

Mr. Sullivan's career in the consumer products industry spans 37 years. He joined Clorox in 1971 and held a number of senior sales and management positions during his career, culminating in his election as chief executive officer and chairman of the board in July 1992.

"I am extremely pleased to have Craig join our board of directors," said Tom Falk, chairman and chief executive officer at Kimberly-Clark. "Having led a successful consumer products company, he brings unique qualifications to the role. His vision, experience and depth of knowledge in building trusted brands will be of great value as we continue to implement our strategic business plan."

Born in Huntington, N.Y., Mr. Sullivan received a bachelor of science degree from Boston College in 1964. Mr. Sullivan also serves as a director of Levi Strauss & Company and Mattel, Inc. In addition, he is a director of the Bay Area Council, The American Ireland Fund, and is a member of the board of governors of The Commonwealth Club of California. He is also a trustee of the California Pacific Medical Center Foundation.

About Kimberly-Clark

Kimberly-Clark and its well-known global brands are an indispensable part of life for people in more than 150 countries. Every day, 1.3 billion people--nearly a quarter of the world's population--trust K-C brands to enhance their health, hygiene and well-being. With brands such as Kleenex, Scott, Huggies, Pull-Ups, Kotex and Depend, Kimberly-Clark holds the No. 1 or No. 2 share position in more than 80 countries. To keep up with the latest K-C news and to learn more about the company's 132-year history of innovation, visit www.kimberly-clark.com.